Five Quintillions
Plain Words Are Best
Poison Gas, Flame Throwers

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

GOVERNMENT estimates the present population of the United States right here at home at 118,628,000. The country has gained 12,917,000 in the last six years, one million in the last year.

All this is encouraging, although it is not enough. We need fifty million more people now to eat surplus products of farms, buy new automobiles and "trade car" bargains.

PEOPLE are the real wealth of the world.

JUDGE LINDSEY on an election committee is suddenly removed from the place in Denver's juvenile court. The whole country knows the admirable work that Judge Lindsey has done, and agrees with Bonfils of the Denver Post who "sees a thing clearly and describes it simply" as follows:

"It is manifestly unfair to let a shameful conspiracy against Judge Lindsey drive him out of office by the fraud it committed. Judge Lindsey is entitled to all the honest ballots cast for him. It is wrong to permit a few crooks to thwart the will of the people by stamping up an election."

WRITE down five, then add 18 zeros and you have five quintillions, the number of miles to our earth from each of the nearby universes floating in space around us. We thought our universe, the Milky Way, with our sun a mere speck in it, was all the Lord created. But that universe is only one little speck in a mass of universes, each an island on its own account.

Within five hundred quintillion miles of this spot in space there are innumerable universes.

IT is easy to SAY "five quintillions"; utterly impossible for the human mind to conceive what it means. Light travels 186,000 miles a second would need five quintillion of miles in 1,000,000 years.

KIND hearted women and sloppy statesmen that would stop manufacture of poison gas in the United States, please read facts.

The French War Ministry announces that liquid-flame throwing squads will be incorporated in every battalion of the French army.

Every army in Europe at this moment is trained intensely in "defensive chemical warfare"—which means in the use of poison gases.

The League of Nations talks about discontinuing the use of poison gas, but nations in the league manufacture it, specialize in it, improve on it.

IF we ever get into war, which may happen in spite of prayers and amiable women's organizations, we shall face the poison gas from the air, everything that chemistry can do to worsen human life and war.

Wouldn't it be a good idea to be ready for it, and how can we be ready for it if we simply watch others getting ready?

THOSE that drink whisky, the bootleg variety now flooding the country, would be interested in the effect of whisky on the blood. Among other things it discourages the leucocytes, destroying the power of the blood to heal wounds. The bootleg drinker would do well to insure his life. If anything happens to him necessitating an operation, he is apt to go from the operating table to the undertaker.

SYBIL BAUER, swimming champion, died, only 23 years old. She set a world's record for women in the backstroke, held 23 records in all, and her specialty was short races from 100 metres to one quarter of a mile.

The early death of this brilliant young woman is a warning against too violent exercise. Straining the heart means shortening life.

A SWISS inventor has made a clock alleged to solve the problem of perpetual motion, which of course it doesn't solve. The thing is wound up by variations in temperature. It has run for a year without being touched. That, however, isn't perpetual motion. SEE COOLIDGE BOOM FOR THIRD TERM STARTED

Breakfast to Texans Hailed as Harbinger of President's 1928 Intentions

POLITICS DISCUSSED

Group of Visitors Called "Republican General Staff" of Lone Star State

Washington, Feb. 3—The politicians of the capital, ever eager and alert to glimpse the first robin of the political springtime, were convinced today that Calvin Coolidge's campaign for another term has been launched.

PRES. COOLIDGE

A quiet breakfast which President Coolidge gave at the White House yesterday morning to a group of Texans, and which did not attract much attention, was hailed today as the harbinger of his political intentions toward 1928.

Present at the White House breakfast table were seven Texans, headed by R. B. Creager, the Republican national committeeman from the Lone Star State, and including Leonard Withington, secretary of the Republican State Committee; James W. Bass of Austin, T. P. Lee of Houston, Orville Hullington of Wichita Falls, Roy Campbell of San Antonia, and F. L. Thompson. Bass and Campbell are federal officeholders.

Come to Boom Haines

The whole company was described by the politicians today as constituting the "Republican general staff" of Texas, whose members will control the 40 odd votes from Texas in the next Republican National convention. There were four members of the senate present, Moses of New Hampshire, Goff of West Virginia, Means of Colorado, and Sackett of Kenucky, but their presence was said to be incidental.

The Texans came to Washington ostensibly to boom H. H. Haines of Houston for appointment to the existing vacancy on the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Such pilgrimages to Washington are not unusual. It is somewhat unusual, however, for such delegations to be entertained at a White House breakfast. The searchers after precedents could find none for it today.

But the strangest feature of the breakfast, according to several of those present, was that the Interstate Commerce Commission vacancy was not discussed, nor even mentioned during the several hours that Mr. Coolidge served sausage and hot cakes and bacon and eggs to his guests.

Haines Not Mentioned?

Instead, the talk was all of politics, of conditions, of the party's outlook for 1928, the state of public feeling, and of organization matters.

"I didn't hear Mr. Haines' name mentioned," said one of the guests. When this bit of political gossip began to be bruited about the capital there was a general lifting of political eyebrows. They went even higher when it was reported that the Texans' breakfast was but the beginning of a series of such affairs, whenever they can conveniently

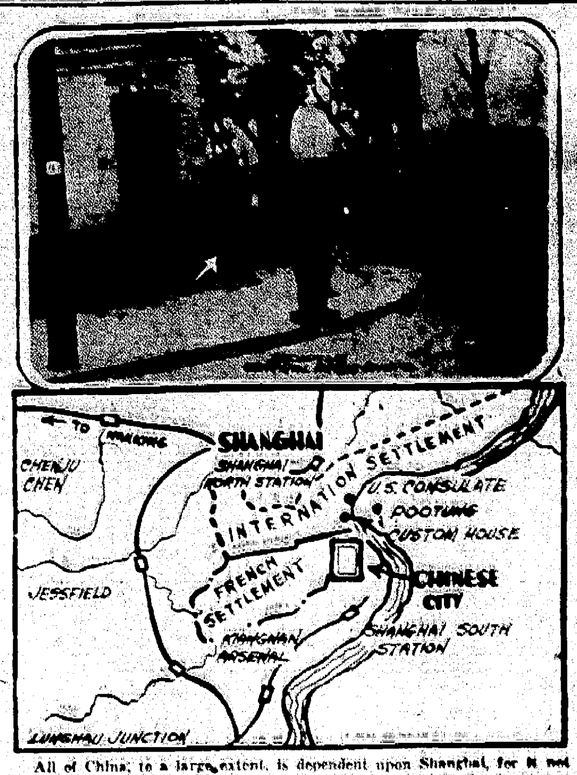
Why Shanghai is Important



All of China, to a large extent, is dependent upon Shanghai, for it not only is the chief port of China and the eighth largest port in the world, but it collects forty per cent of the Chinese customs. It is the center of large British interests. Its population is estimated at 1,838,000. Above is a photo of the Shanghai Bund (at right) and (in foreground), Nanking Road, scene of recent rioting. Arrow in picture points to a Sikh policeman of the "international city" of Shanghai. Dressed like an English bobby, he is resented by the Chinese. Island Possession Control Changes In Willis' Bill Favored By Col. Thompson

Plan Before Senate Calls for Removal of Philippine Direction from Army and Navy Departments to Civilian Bureau

Washington, Feb. 3—Control of the Philippines and other island possessions of the United States would be removed from the war and navy departments and placed in the hands of a civilian bureau under terms of a bill introduced today by Senator Willis, Republican of Ohio.

This plan was recommended by Col. Carmi A. Thompson in his report to President Coolidge on conditions in the Philippines.

A director and assistant director would be appointed by President Coolidge for terms of six years to constitute the proposed new bureau.

"The purpose of the bill," said Willis, "is to provide civil government in our insular possessions, because I believe the first steps towards the economic development of our insular possessions is to give them the necessary government civil offices."

The legislation would affect the Philippines the Virgin Islands, Guam and Samoa, and the affairs of the war department in respect to the Dominican customs receivership under provisions of the convention between the United States and the Dominican Republic. It would not, however, disturb the present interior department jurisdiction over Hawaii and the Philippines.

The introduction of this bill is in no wise a reflection on General Wood, governor general of the Philippines," said Willis. "The various governors of our insular possessions would report to the director of insular affairs. The bill would not disturb the governors of the various insular possessions who would still be appointed by the president."

Mills brought mandmus action in the Franklin County courts Wednesday He charged he had twice been refused permission to visit McDermott by P. E. Thomas, warden of the Ohio Penitentiary.

In reviewing the case Judge Shell declared Warden Thomas was within his right when he refused Mills the permission.

YOUTH CHARGED WITH HOLDUP IS BOUND OVER

Albert Simpkins, 18, Held to Grand Jury Under Bond of $5,000

COMPANION SENTENCED

Both Sign Written Confessions Describing Robbery of Alex Walter, Grocer

Albert Simpkins, 18, has been bound over to the grand jury on a $5,000 bond following his plea of guilty to the charge of having held up and robbed Alex Walter, N. Main st grocer, the night of Friday, Jan. 7, and Harold Huggins, 16, has been sentenced to the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster as an accomplice in the robbery.

Both of the boys have signed written confessions, sworn to before City Solicitor George T. Gerau. These confessions were obtained, authorities say, largely as a result of George Long, 25, having been arrested and wrongly accused of the robbery, both of the boys declaring that a desire to save an innocent man from suffering punishment led them to admit their guilt.

Long Exonerated

Long, held prisoner for several days while circumstances seemed to place him under suspicion, was completely exonerated by the confessions and was released from the county jail Tuesday.

Simpkins pleaded guilty when arraigned yesterday afternoon before Municipal Judge Martin and Huggins entered a similar plea this morning before Juvenile Judge McNeal.

Simpkins was unable to furnish the $5,000 bond fixed by Judge Martin and will be held at the county jail awaiting action of the grand jury.

Simpkins was the first of the two boys to sign a confession. He attached his signature to a statement reciting details of the robbery Tuesday afternoon and in doing so implicated young Huggins. A similar confession was obtained from the Huggins boy yesterday afternoon.

Accuses Simpkins

Simpkins, according to the Huggins statement, planned the Walter robbery. Several days before the robbery, Huggins relates in his confession, Simpkins came to him and said, "Friday night I am going over to Main st and pull a job and asked me if I would go with him. I said that I would."

After arriving at his home from the Silver st school where he was enrolled as a grade school student, young Huggins changed clothes and started toward Main st with Simpkins, he relates. He claims that at that time he was not informed regarding Simpkins' plans and thought that he intended to hold up a filling station located near the entrance of Crystal Lake park.

Approaching the Walter grocery, located at the junction of N. Main st and the Hillman Ford rd, Simpkins announced that this store would be the scene of operations.

In making his confession, Simpkins denied that he had disguised himself by blackening his face, claiming that the makeup resulted from his face having

J. DUVAL DODGE LOSES APPEALS COURT CASE

Mother Winner in Contention of Four-Year-Old Child's Estate

Detroit, Feb. 3—John Duval Dodge, son of the late John F. Dodge, today lost his fight in circuit court to share in the $7,500,000 estate of his half sister, Anna Margaret Dodge, who died in 1924 at the age of four.

Judge Harry J. Dingeman decided in favor of Anna Margaret's mother, now Mrs. Matilda R. Dodge Wilson, that the brothers and sisters and half brothers and half sisters of Anna Margaret were not entitled to any share in her estate, real or personal. The probate court had held that the personal property, which comprised the bulk of the estate, should go to the mother, but that the brothers and sisters could share in the real estate, which amounted to about $12,000. Judge Dingeman held that the real estate also must pass to the widow.

Attorneys for John Duval Dodge intimated they would appeal the decision to the Michigan Supreme Court. If the decision is upheld there the last hope of John Duval Dodge increasing his small share of the estate, made by his father will from John Duval, following the latter's death Jan. 14, 1920, forced the family to settle with him for $1,000,000 cash, after the father had set the sum of $500,000 as the maximum of $1,000,000.

RECITAL CLUB PLANS SUNDAY CONCERT SERIES

First Free Program To Be Given Feb. 6 at Marion Theater

TWO OTHERS ARRANGED

Organization Hopes To Develop Greater Appreciation for Good Music

In the hope of developing both a greater appreciation of good music and a better community spirit here, the Marion Lecture-Recital Club today announced a series of popular Sunday concerts.

Three concerts will be given in the series which will start next Sunday afternoon. The other two concerts will be offered on succeeding Sundays, Feb. 13 and 20. The three programs will be presented at the Marion Theater.

Community concerts have been gaining in popularity throughout the United States for the last several years. In Marion concerts come all too infrequently, according to club officers, and it is now their hope to bring before Marion audiences programs of popular and semi-classical numbers. These programs will be both vocal and instrumental.

Free To All

Mrs. Harold K. Mouser, president of the Lecture-Recital Club, said today that the concerts, which will begin at 4 o'clock each Sunday afternoon of the series and will be finished by 5 o'clock, will be absolutely free to the public, neither an admission charge being made nor a collection taken.

The Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs is making possible the sponsoring of these concerts, Mrs. Mouser said, the federation backing the series financially. If the series of concerts is successful and if appreciation of them is shown another of series that will run through March probably will be given.

The programs which present talent from Marion and other cities, will be given under the direction of Miss Maye Evangeline Lawrence, civic chairman of the club, and Mrs. James C. Woods, program chairman.

COMMITTEE'S DECISION ON SMITH POSTPONED

Delay Granted to Defense Counsel Seeking Conference with Confined Client

Washington, Feb. 3—The senate elections committee today postponed until next Wednesday its decision in the case of Senator-Designate Frank L. Smith, Republican, of Illinois, whose right to a seat in the senate is being questioned because of slush fund charges.

The postponement was granted by the committee when Smith's counsel requested that they be allowed to return to Illinois to confer with Smith, who is ill at his home there, before proceeding further.

A poll indicated that a majority of the committee favored immediate admission of Smith pending further action on the slush fund charges raised against him.

The case of Arthur R. Gould, Republican, Maine, presented a different question as the New England senator already has taken the oath of office. In this matter the committee must decide whether charges that he participated in the bribing of a Canadian government official in 1918, and made similar demands for his campaign for the senate, The committee also must decide whether the charges are true.

There were indications today that the senate would be asked to oust Gould by democrats, a majority report, however, being expected urging his exoneration from the charges.

CAL'S CAUTIOUS

Nice Day for Ground Hogs—Well, Maybe It Is

Washington, Feb. 3—A New York story went the rounds of the capital today proving anew that President Coolidge is conservative and cautious.

At the White House breakfast yesterday—ground hog's day—the president accorded his visitors a monosyllabic greeting of this a brief nod. When he bowed to Senator Moses, Republican, of New Hampshire, the story says, the latter observed: "It's a lovely day for ground hogs."

The sun was shining brightly over Washington, the skies were a cloudless blue but then it was only 8 a. m.

"Yes, so far," replied the president.

GRAND JURY IS CALLED TO ACT ON CRIME WAVE

Will Reconvene Monday To Investigate Growing Wave of Juvenile Lawlessness

The wave of juvenile lawlessness which has developed in the city of Marion during the last few months and resulted in the arrest of 14 youths on robbery charges recently is to be investigated at a session of the Marion County Grand Jury called for next Monday.

Announcement that arrangements had been made for calling the grand jury was made today by Prosecuting Attorney Frank Wiedemann following a conference with Common Pleas Judge George B. Seofield, who, it was stated, has given his approval to plans for the investigation.

A motion asking for a court order authorizing the issuance of summons for the grand jurors was to be filed by Prosecutor Wiedemann this afternoon.

Not Special Session

This will not be a special grand jury session, the summons being merely for reconvening of the jurors who recently completed their regular deliberations for this term of court and who were dismissed subject to call from the court in case any emergency should arise.

Although cases involving only three of the 14 youths taken into custody during the last few weeks are to be acted upon, it is possible that the entire juvenile crime wave situation will be considered by the grand jurors and that their report may comment on probable causes of youthful waywardness and methods needed for effecting a remedy.

Urges Prompt Action

"We believe that prompt action by authorities may serve as a check to prevailing future law violations," Prosecutor Wiedemann stated today.

The primary purpose of the grand jury session, however, is to take action on charges pending against Arthur Erwin, 20, and John Erwin, 18, brothers residing at 381 Chestnut st and Albert Simpkins, 18, of the Garden City pk. These are the only boys in the list of 14 arrested on robbery charges whose cases have not been disposed of.

The remainder of the 14 have either been fined or are now serving jail sentences or have been arraigned in Juvenile Court and ordered sent to the State Industrial School or the Mansfield Reformatory.

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 3—The 1,200 men of the Fourth Regiment, United States Marine Corps, were being embarked here today aboard the transport Chaumont which was scheduled to depart immediately for China via Honolulu and Guam. The Chaumont arrived from San Francisco Bay late last night and the work of embarkation was under taken at once. Officers estimated it would take 27 days for the transport to reach China.

Embarkation of the regiment and loading of supplies was expected to be completed before midnight today and the Chaumont was expected to sail immediately afterward. The transport is under orders to reach China with the least possible delay.

Washington, Feb. 3—A detachment of more than 250 marines today was ordered direct to Shanghai to assist in protecting American lives and property.

Rear Admiral C. B. Williams, commander of the Asiatic Fleet, advised the navy department that the marines on the U. S. S. Chaumont from Guam, plus those officers and of enlisted men from the Philippines have been ordered transferred to the U. S. S. Pecos, a tanker, which will sail tomorrow from the Philippines.

Washington, Feb. 3—Hope of a peaceful settlement of the Chinese problem, which has been growing in government circles here, disappeared almost completely when England's open defiance of the Canton and Peking governments became known.

Although officials withheld formal comment on the London cabinet's refusal to submit to Chinese demands for the withdrawal of the 20,000 troops now steaming toward Shanghai, there was apparent an undercurrent of feeling that the break might eventually lead to war on a major scale.

Particularly disquieting was the news that the Nationalist army would make a surprise effort to capture Shanghai before the arrival of the British defense force. If this plan is carried out, the British undoubtedly will have to resort to open hostilities to protect their nationals, and with American citizens in virtually the same predicament in Shanghai this country may be drawn into a conflict against its will.

U.S. Forces Placed

The administration has been basing its American Chinese policy on the assumption that the Chaumont, with its marines, and the cruiser Pittsburgh, with its [illegible] would be sufficient to protect American lives and property in the event of a crisis. The Chaumont is now on the high seas and will be followed by [illegible] Pittsburgh, which is now at Manila.

There was considerable speculation today as to what the navy department would do in the event the Chaumont and Pittsburgh forces proved inadequate. Officials declined to discuss the matter, but it was pointed out that the navy has a number of cruisers in the Asiatic waters which could be ordered to Shanghai.

Ear, Eye, Nose and Throat Section To Be Ready Within Week

Dr. Urban H. Merrill, of Ellensburg, Wash., will be in charge of the eye, ear, nose and throat department, Dr. Smith announced. Dr. Merrill was graduated from Bowdoin College, Maine, and then went to the Mayo Brothers Clinic in Rochester, Minn., where he took post-graduate work and practiced for three years. He has been in Ellensburg, Wash., for several years.

The other departments of the clinic are now fully equipped and are operating now, Dr. Smith said. Dr. Frederick W. James is in charge of the one department, and Miss Emma B. Dr. Smith is in charge of general medicine and surgery.

Another department, equipped with X-ray apparatus and headed by a specialist in this work will be added to the clinic later, Dr. Smith stated. This department will be opened as soon as the arrangements can be made for the right man to come here to join the clinic staff, and the necessary equipment is added to the present X-ray equipment, Dr. Smith stated.

CITY OFFICIAL TALKS OF AMUSING REPORT

Public officials receive numerous and varied complaints which frequently are amusing and based upon conditions which do not actually exist.

An example was furnished by C. M. Tobin, City Sanitary Inspector, in a report filed with the Board of Health at its monthly meeting.

Mr. Tobin stated that one day in January he was summoned by an apparently urgent call from a local apartment house where it was alleged that the children of a family under quarantine were permitted to run about and play in the halls of the building.

The health department officer made a hurried run to the apartment house and found that the parents against whom the complaint had been filed had only one child and that it was in bed under treatment for scarlet fever.

WILL COMPLETE SCHICK TEST HERE MARCH 1

Work of Administering Diphtheria Immunization Rapidly Nearing Final Stages

Work of administering the Schick test and diphtheria immunization treatment to pupils in the local schools is now in its final stage and will be completed before March 1, according to an announcement made yesterday by Dr. W. J. Weiser, City Health Commissioner, at the monthly meeting of the Board of Health.

The N. Main Street school is the only one of the 14 grade schools where children have not been given the treatment and tests are to be administered there this week, Dr. Weiser stated. Immunization work at this building will be completed during the following three weeks, one treatment being given each week.

2,000 Tested

Dr. Weiser reported that approximately 2,000 children have received the treatment thus far and that this number will be increased to about 2,150 when the work is brought to a conclusion at the N. Main-st building.

Results of the immunization program carried out in the schools a year ago, when the system was first introduced here, have been thoroughly satisfactory, Dr. Weiser states. All of the children given treatments at that time are being re-tested and 80 per cent register as immune, the Health Commissioner's record shows.

Increase Shown

The numebr of grade school pupils receiving the test this year is considerably in excess of the total registered a year ago, indicating that confidence in effectiveness of the plan as a safeguard against diphtheria is growing here. The tests and treatments are administered to children only after consent certificates have been signed by parents.

The work this year is confined solely to grade schools, Junior and Harding High Schools having been eliminated. This plan has been adopted because experience has shown that the benefits of immunization treatment are most effective among children of grade school age.

January Report

During January, Dr. Weiser reported yesterday, Schick testing and immunization were completed at St. Mary's, Olney, Davids, Oakland Heights, Glenwood and Forest Lawn schools. All other schools, aside from N. Main-st, were visited prior to Jan. 1, the work having been started late in October. The tests and treatments have been administered by Dr. Weiser, assisted by the three local public health nurses.

Two cases of diphtheria, 13 of tuberculosis, and three of scarlet fever were reported to Dr. Weiser during January, he reported. The tuberculosis cases were of long standing but had never been registered with the Health Commissioner.

Modern Knight Demands Joust Following Quarrel Over Girl; Heaves Iron at Rival

A MODERN revival of the tactics used in the days when knights were bold and rivalry between suitors contending for the affections of maidens fair resolved itself into hazardous combat was revealed in the arrest of Clyde Rogers, 22, of 270 Park-blvd, and his arraignment in Municipal Court yesterday.

Rogers, according to the story told in court regarding incidents leading up to his arrest, heaved an iron bar at Samuel Miller, 23, as an expression of displeasure after both had tried to call on the same girl and she had shown a preferance for Miller.

The attack on Miller took place on Silver-st, near the Hocking Valley railway, Tuesday night, while he was seated in an automobile owned by Lester Iams, 230 Elm-st, according to the story related to court officials.

After turning down an invitation from Rogers to get out of the machine and engage in a fistic arguument, Miller started to drive on and it was then, so the court was told, that Rogers hurled the iron bar. It crashed through the rear end of the automobile, it is claimed, and struck Miller on the shoulder.

Rogers was taken into custody shortly after the alleged attack and yesterday an affidavit was filed against him by Iams, owner of the automobile, charging him with malicious destruction of property. Rogers pleaded guilty when taken before Municipal Judge Martin and was fined $50 and costs. He was taken to the County Jail pending payment.

The girl who was the innocent cause of the trouble was not with Miller when the alleged attack by Rogers occurred, having gone to the home of a friend when signs of hostilities developed. Iams, owner of the automobile, was at his home, having loaned the car to Miller early Tuesday night.

"FANS" WRITE DADDY

Browning Reads His Letters and "Peaches" Plans Bermuda Trip

New York, Feb. 3—"Daddy" Browning comforted his lacerated feelings today by glancing through the mountain of fan mail that keeps pouring into his office in W. Seventy-Second-st.

"Peaches" Heenan Browning, meanwhile, was at home resting. She and her mother, Mrs. Carolyn Heenan, are planning a trip to Bermuda for a rest.

"On my money too," wailed "Daddy" when he heard it. He is paying "Peaches" $300 a week alimony.

The letters to "Daddy" came from all parts of the nation—north, east, south and west, and they all were filled with good cheer and condolence. He gladly displayed them.

DADDY CENTER OF REFORM MOVEMENT

Washington, Feb. 3 — Edward W. Browning, the 52-year-old New Yorker, who is seeking to legally cast off his 16-year-old wife, "Peaches" Heenan Browning, today had become "Exhibit A" for the reform forces of congress.

The Browning trial is to be the starting point for a new reform wave, it was disclosed by Representative Upshaw, Democrat, of Georgia, captain of the reform group.

The immediate objective is to prohibit the details of salacious divorce cases from reaching the public through the printed word. Upshaw would bar mail privileges to accomplish this result.

The Browning case is being invoked in the campaign for national regulation of the movie and against sexplays and magazines.

Barnum Was Wrong—

When He Said, "One is Born Every Minute"

How do we know Barnum was wrong? That's easy—We can prove that by the history of malt in America. There are many brands of malt on the market; most of them have fancy labels with high-sounding adjectives to describe the contents of the can. But, in spite of this, one brand alone dominates the market. Why? Because in the blending of choicest No. 1 barley with genuine Imported Bohemian Hops, Puritan has produced unequalled Richness, Strength and Flavor. Absolutely, Barnum was wrong.

People who have tried other brands demand Puritan.

become smeared with dust while he was unloading coal during the afternoon.

Used Coal Dust

Young Huggins, however, relates that Simpkins took coal dust from a car on the Pennsylvania railway tracks and blackened his face in preparation for the robbery.

Both of the confessions conform in most of the important details. Huggins and Simpkins relate that after the robbery they went to the Huggins home where the money taken from Walter was divided. The loot totalled about $25 and Huggins received $9, he states.

Following the division of the money, they attended a show at a West Side motion picture house, Huggins states.

Confessions Agree

Both confessions state that Simpkins went to the Walter home and held up Walter at the point of a gun while the Huggins boy waited on the street about a block away.

"Later I saw in the paper where a man named Long had been arrested and then I thought I had better tell the truth about it," young Huggins states.

Mystery surrounding the robbery was cleared up and the confessions obtained from the two boys as the result of an investigation conducted by Sheriff Deal, Deputies Vane Ireland and Dexter Hazen and City Solicitor Geran.

The tip which resulted in arrest of Simpkins and Huggins came from a man living near their homes on the Garden City-pk who happened to be a friend of George Long, the man first accused of the robbery. Suspecting the two boys and determined to save an innocent man from being punished, he furnished the information which speedily solved the mystery and exonerated Long.

be arraigned, the ultimate design of which is to help Mr. Coolidge make up his mind about 1928.

So far as is known in Washington, Mr. Coolidge has never said or even intimated to anyone whether he is to be a candidate to succeed himself. The general impression has prevailed among Republican leaders that he is a candidate, although none of them pretends to speak authoritatively.

One of them, who can be considered "close" to the White House, recently said:

"The plain truth about the matter is that Mr. Coolidge hasn't made up his mind. If there seems to be a demand from the party that he run again he will do so; he would, in fact, like nothing better. On the other hand, if this Lowden movement, or any other movement, gets big enough and threatens to cause a real fight in the convention, Mr. Coolidge probably would think a good while before he braved the 'third term' bugaboo."

Creager "Slemp of 1928?"

The breakfasts, such as the one tendered the party leaders from Texas yesterday, are considered measures to help Mr. Coolidge make up his mind. Few believe that any guests at his table will advise him that his candidacy would be unpopular.

There were reports about the capital today that Creager is to become "the Slemp of 1928."

C. Bascom Slemp, ex-Virginia congressman and ex-secretary to the president, was one of the principal Coolidge lieutenants in the pre-convention maneuvering of '24. It was Slemp, with his long experience in handling southern delegates to Republican National conventions, who toured the south in the winter of '23 and the spring of '24, rounding up and organizing the Coolidge delegations to the Cleveland convention. The efficiency with which he accomplished his task was exhibited at Cleveland the following June.

When Slemp failed to get a cabinet post after the 1924 election he resigned as secretary to Mr. Coolidge. Lately he has been touring southern states, and the political gossip has been that his touring was in the interests of some of Mr. Coolidge's possible opponents in '28 Representative Nick Longworth included.

Creager has had considerable experience in handling southern delegates himself. He has been a familiar figure about national conventions for many years, usually involved in contests over the credentials of Southern delegations.

All in all, the political railbirds of the capital thought today they have discerned the first chirp of the Coolidge robin of '28.

from across the Pacific and that no further steps will be taken to express this government's willingness to negotiate.

BRITISH REFUSE TO MODIFY PREPARATIONS

London, Feb. 3—Reports from the Chinese fighting zone today indicated that the Cantonese forces may try to forestall the purpose of Britain in sending large numbers of military to Shanghai by making a supreme effort to capture the international city from the Sun Chuang-Fang forces before the British troops enroute can arrive, according to dispatches from Shanghai.

It was reported that General Chiang Kai-Shek, commander-in-chief of the Cantonese, is ill and confined to a hospital.

The British government stood its ground today and refused to modify in any way its military preparations looking to the protection of British lives and property in Shanghai pending an agreement, or agreements with the warring Chinese factions for the execution of new treaties.

This decision, reached at a meeting of the cabinet which sat far into the night, amounted to a disregard of the demands of both Eugene Chen, foreign minister of the Nationalist government, and Wellington Koo, of the Peking government, that the thousands of British troops comprising the "Shanghai defense force" now enroute to China be turned about and brought home.

The cabinet members were said to have felt that neither the Nationalists nor the politically impotent Peking government is in a position to guarantee adequate protection to British lives and property in China.

A strong factor in the decision to disregard the Chinese demands was said to be the British government's belief that the leaders of the Cantonese are wholly under the influence of Russian soviet agents.

Although it was reported that Great Britain has sent new instructions to Charge O'Malley, it was repeatedly denied that these instructions were in the nature of concessions. In the semi-official circles it was stated that the instructions were to the effect that if Eugene Chen could give definite assurances as to the future safety of British in Shanghai the British might consider a diversion of some of the troops now enroute to China.

Easy to check Catarrh NOW!

Many endure catarrh because they do not know how easy it is to end it. Salves and ointments give only temporary relief. Catarrh is too deep-seated for them to reach effectively.

To end catarrh you must treat the inflamed mucous membranes—the delicate linings of nose, throat and head. When these are again in a healthy condition, catarrh, and catarrhal deafness disappear.

To do this use Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Thousands have found it most effective for over 40 years. Ask your druggist. Price 85c. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

Immensity of the Universe.

Dr. Edwin Hubble, of Mount Wilson observatory, writing for the Astrophysical Journal, edited by Dr. Edwin B. Frost, of Yerkes observatory, speaks of almost inconceivable magnitudes and distances in an article dwelling on some of the nebulae of the island universe beyond the Milky Way, beyond our stellar system, nearly five quintillion—5,000,000,000,000,000,000—miles away.

Can any ordinary mortal conceive of a distance such as that? Five quintillion miles is approximately 1,000,000 light years. A light year is the distance light, traveling at the rate of about 186,000 miles a second, will travel in a year. Thus these nebulae are so far away that light, which travels at a speed capable of circling the earth seven times in the tick of a clock, reaches us 1,000,000 years after leaving them. In other words, the light which comes from them at any time they may be observed has been on the way 1,000,000 years.

Dr. Hubble began his work at Yerkes observatory at Williams Bay, Wisconsin, and continued it at Mount Wilson, except for an interruption during the war, and is said at the University of Chicago to have made the most comprehensive study of nebulae beyond the stellar system ever attempted. His study was made possible by the photographs of 400 of the nebulae taken with the sixty and 100-inch reflectors at Mount Wilson.

The extra-galactic objects are not true nebulae, which are masses of gaseous matter and dust, he says, but are spiral groupings of stars.

Dr. Hubble finds that "within a distance of 500,000,000,000,000,000,000 miles, these extra-galactic nebulae are uniformly distributed," with one spiral for about a cubic space represented by the figure "7" with fifty-six ciphers added.

This is not theory. It is the result of observation and calculation. If we are to go into theory, we find that the distances established by Dr. Hubble's study are well within the limits set by the Einstein theory of relativity. Acording to the theory of Dr. Einstein, space in the universe is finite, and not infinite, curving into itself. If it were possible to make the long voyage through space, according to the theory, the voyager traveling in a straight line would finish at the same spot from which he started, just as would a traveler around the world.

Limits set by the Einstein theory are 600 times greater than the present range of the most powerful telescope in existence, the 100-inch reflector at Mount Wilson, which was used by Dr. Hubble.

But getting away from theory and back to the remarkable observations of Dr. Hubble, imagine a system so great as to be represented in miles by the figure "7" with fifty-six ciphers after it.

And yet there are those who believe that all the universe was made for us mortals here on one of the smallest planets of the smallest solar system known to scientists, a planet as small in comparison with the universe as a grain of sand compared with this planet upon which we live.

Midnight Sailings.

We have known for some time why so many midnight sailings are scheduled for the great Atlantic liners. The big liners are so fast, so steady and so dependable that, unless conditions are markedly extraordinary, their time of arrival at the ports they make can be figured almost to a nicety. Many of them are so much faster than their schedules that, even though they are held up by storm for a day or two, they can reach port on time. Such being the case, they are scheduled to leave New York at midnight so that, at their ordinary regulation speed they may reach Cherbourg early in the morning and Southampton in the early afternoon, and thus passengers may make the trip either to Paris or London by daylight.

We know this, but we didn't understand the great popularity of midnight sailings with the traveling public until we came upon the explanation recently. We can see how the explanation explains in the case of the veteran ocean traveler. We mean veteran in number of trips, rather than in years. As we stated, the explanation may explain for one accustomed to ocean travel, but it wouldn't for us. A day or two ago the passenger traffic manager of the International Merchant Marine, who is said to be thoroughly familiar with the whims of the ocean-traveling public, explained the popularity of midnight sailings which obtains. In answer to a query, he sad:

"People like midnight sailings to Europe as they find it a leisurely way of starting their voyage, with opportunity in the evening for a dinner or theater party before coming to the pier.

"A midnight sailing is easy on the nerves also. There is no noise and bustle in and around the piers at night, as in the daytime, and none of the excitement of emotional farewells that seem inseparable from daylight sailings.

"Friends of passengers come in numbers to bid them farewell, but after a visit to the passengers' staterooms, they usually go home, leaving their friends to go to bed, as most experienced travelers do before the ship leaves the dock.

"We have sixty midnight sailings scheduled for White Star line and Red Star line ships for the remainder of 1927."

As we stated, we can understand why the experienced traveler has a leaning toward midnight sailings. The official quoted has made the thing perfectly plain. But, as we intimated, no midnight sailings for us. Starting out on an ocean trip is not an old story for us, or the most of us. It's an experience. It's more than that; it's an event of events in our lives, and we do not care to miss any of the thrills. We want to hear the noise and note the bustle and confusion in and around the piers. We want the excitement of the emotional farewells. We do not care to participate in them personally, but we want to witness them. To us the sailing and the landing are the big features of the trip and we wouldn't feel we got our money's worth were we cut off from them. The restful days afloat, the games, the dances, the entertainments, the beauty of the sea and sky are all right to talk about in the literature of the transportation companies, but when the proposition is put right up to the most of us inlanders, the verdict of about ninety-five per cent, of us will be for daylight sailings every time. And then, too, the novelty of entering either Paris or London by night is not to be missed. It's a real adventure the one experiencing it will never forget. Let the old travelers who sail from force of habit leave at midnight if they will, we who are on the search for novelty and adventure will not miss the trip down New York bay by day and the trip through the streets of Paris or London by night. Either of the latter, as a first experience, has never been presented at their full worth in print.

Heavy Toll of Heart Disease.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Almost a million and a half lives were lost last year in the United States. This is 75,000 more than the year before, and, with one or two exceptions perhaps, the greatest death roll in American history.

It is not to be wondered at that, with the increase of population, there should be a greater aggregate of deaths. But the figures I have just given indicate an increase in the rate per thousand. Not more than third of the increase can be explained by growth in population.

What particular diseases were more deadly last year than the year before? They are the following and in the order named: Pneumonia, influenza, heart disease, Bright's disease, cancer and apoplexy.

I am glad to say that scientific efforts continue to lessen deaths from certain diseases. Tuberculosis, diphtheria and typhoid fever are notable examples.

Suicides and deaths from automobile accidents are on the increase. Other violent and accidental deaths decreased somewhat.

These are interesting facts. They deserve to be studied, because it is important for us to know where the next battle against disease is to take place.

Pneumonia continues to be a serious menace to society. Science is at work upon the problem, and it is to be hoped the next year may show widened knowledge of how to deal with this fatal malady.

Influenza is one of the periodical diseases. Every so often we face its ravages, and 1926 happened to be one of the bad years. Medical men and laboratory workers are laboring to find a way to defeat it.

It is a sad commentary upon our manner of living that the various diseases of the heart should continue to increase. Many of thes ailments are the result of our strenuous habits. Others come from neglected infections, of course, but the center of infection is all too frequently in the intestinal tract. Wrong eating practices have resulted in indigestion, followed by such serious disturbances in the digestive organs that the whole body suffers.

Whenever the system is weakened from any cause the heart is the first of the organs to know it. It is a delicate organ, working all the time from birth to death. It never rests. Its operations are of vital necessity, not alone to health, but to life.

The greatest care must be exercised to do away with the practices which make for heart disease. Then the record will be bettered. The hopeful thing about it is there is every prospect of improvement if there is any real effort to accomplish it.

Disease is not inevitable. It can be escaped. But to get away from it there must be never failing attention to those things which make for physical disaster.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

Did you ever notice how kids don't make good heroes? Well, I guess it's because it just ain't natural to be a hero, and kids is natural. You try to praise a youngster for something he's done that you think is brave, and he'll always give you the horse laugh. It's only grownups, full of pride, that tries to grab off glory for every little thing they do.

So there was a kid not long ago that was going home from school along with another kid, and they was walking along on the ice of a river, and one of them fell in. The other one jumped in after him and after quite a little trouble, pulled him ashore.

The newspapers in the town got some hero fund interested in the young hero, and a solemn court of investigators from a big town come out there to investigate whether to give George a gold medal and a trip to Hong Kong for being a hero. They all sat around and started to ask George questions, and George didn't like it a bit.

"Now, will you please tell us for our stenographic record, George, just what thought run through your mind that caused you to jump into the icy water and rescue your friend?" the chairman asked.

"Sure, that's a cinch," says George. "I took my dad's new silver flask, that he got for Christmas, to school that day, with some cider in it. I give it to this guy to take a swig out of on the way home, and he swilled it all down and then put the flask in his pocket. When he went through the ice, I thought right quick that I'd get the seat wore out of my pants by my dad if I didn't jump in and save that there flask, so of course I done it. That's nuthin', you'd a-done the same thing yourself."—Copyright, 1927.

Vagrant Verse.

UNVANQUISHED.

We have stripped bare the secrets of the earth,
Her beauty is our prize, and to our ears
The glorious captive sings of yesteryears
And years to come for increase of our mirth.
Yea, every little human mood gives birth
To some new sweetness on her harp of tears;
Even her mountains hold no further fears
For us; we dare the peaks to prove our worth!
Nothing immune, the sky succumbs to us!
We tread the last abysms—we the kings,
The conquerers, lords of the hazardous.
To whom the earth, to whom the heaven sings! . . .
Only one grandeur mocks our prison bars:
The inaccessible stillness of the stars!

New York Day by Day

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York, Feb. 3—There are perhaps two dozen men, weather permitting, who "yacht to work" in New York. There are a few movie magnates in the fancy flotilla, but mostly they are money-bags who rule the Wall street canyons.

The morning yacht trip symbolizes the play spirit in every man no matter how high he rises in the world. The yacht flag is not hoisted until the owner is aboard, then he dons his cap and becomes "Commodore" to the crew.

He has his captain, a skilled seaman, who gives all commands after first gravely consulting with the "Commodore," who knows about as much about seamanship as a spook does chop-suey. The yachts generally leave the sound estates docks in time to be at the Battery by 11.

All the yachts are equipped with wireless and radio and important financial news is relayed to the comic opera "Commodores" from their lieutenants on the job. Breakfast is usually partaken on board and afterward a few turns of the deck and morning dictation.

The high-powered executive loses no time in his voyage. His secretary is with him always with pencil and pad. It is not unusual in the summer months for yacht owners to take twenty guests home for the night and sail them back to work in the morning.

The fully equipped yacht is, of course, only for the super-rich. It is a financial burden to a man on a salary of say $150,000 a year. The fue yachts cost from a quarter to a half million dollars. They are usually fully manned and provisioned the year around.

The upkeep of some are $75,000 a year. I have always liked that story of a yacht guest inquiring about a tiny speck on the horizon. The Wall street financier took his binoculars and sighted a humped over man rowing a skiff. "That," he said, "is a customer's yacht."

Now the only way they can reach cold type is to die naturally, be killed or kill themselves. They are hearing what Park row calls "the thunder of silence."

With his name presented for the presidential nomination at two national conventions of the Democratic party, and on both occasions showing great strength, William Gibbs McAdoo is regarded as a likely candidate for the Democratic nomination again in 1928. He was born at Marietta, Georgia, October 31, 1863, and prior to his appointment as secretary of the treasury in the cabinet of President Wilson in 1913, he practised law and headed the company operating the Hudson and Manhattan tubes under the Hudson river at New York City. Mr. McAdoo also served as chairman ex-officio of the federal farm loan board, as chairman of the federal reserve board and also as chairman of the United States section of the International high commission. During the World war he acted as director general of railways.

Some Questions of Interest Asked and Answered.

Q. Has a current of 310 amperes ever been obtained? T. S.

A. The General Electric company developed a tube capable of delivering twenty kilowatts of high-frequency energy to an aerial. Using six of these tubes in parallel with 15,000 volts on the anode, a current of 310 amperes in an Alexanderson multiple-tuned aerial was obtained. A tube of the magnetron type was developed by the same company, capable of giving 1,000 kilowatts at 20,000 cycles with an efficiency of seventy per cent.

Q. Where are the chief spice producing centers? R. E. B.

A. Practically all spices grow in hot climates, and close to the ocean. Intense heat, together with the salt sea breezes, seem necessary to produce that highly aromatic, snappy quality so characteristic of every kind of spice. Penang is perhaps he most interesting island in the world so far as the growing of spices is concerned. Not only does it grow cloves and pepper, but almost every known kind of spice and both in quality and quantity its production is remarkable.

Q. What are neumes? S. P. S.

A. From the end of the fourth to the twelfth centuries neumes formed a system of notation, or pitch of notes. Since no stave existed, they were not notes as we now understand them. They were doubtless accent marks, placed over syllables and consisted of dots, dashes and other hieroglyphics. These were gradually developed into notes.

Q. What is peachblow ware? W. H. B.

A. Peachblow ware is the most valuable of Chinese pottery. It belongs to the Chinese potteries which are transmutation glazes embracing a type of flame color. These glazes differ from red to a delicate pink which is peachblow. Peachblow products have realized prize amounts in salesrooms and many pieces are exhibited in museums. They are no longer made. Originally peachblow was made in King te Chin and was considered as a perfect example of the potter's art.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

The ancient scientist, Archimedes, said: "Give me a lever long enough and a prop strong enough, and I can single-handed move the world."

You see the lever would have to be very long indeed. The reason many of us make a poor job at the thing we want to do is that we stand too close to it. We don't see our job as a whole or in its relation to the jobs of other people. We live and move and have our being all bound up with prejudice in our own favor. If we can, let's stand off and take a look at the thing we are trying to do—without prejudice.

Don't ever forget that a newspaper is not the chronicle of events. It is the chronicle of unusual events. People who do unusual things, good or bad, get into the newspapers, and always will. Despite the exceptions, which will always draw the publicity, remember that most people pay their bills and take care of their families and do their work as well as they know how.

Disraeli, great British premier, making a speech, once said of an opponent: "He thinks posterity is a packhorse, always ready to be loaded."

Statesmen, near-statesmen, ward politicians and others today frequently have the same easy way of looking ahead or of refusing to look ahead.

They do what they think is the expedient thing for the moment and leave all sorts of uncleaned-up work and burdens for those who come after. They load the pack-horse of posterity with taxes and responsibilities and burdens of all sorts.

The wife of Charlie Chaplin sues him for divorce. Now she gets a lot of letters threatening her life. Other letters contain offers of marriage. Dr. Albert Edward Wiggam, student of the human being, says man is not a rational creature. There is no use pretending he is. He is swayed by his instincts and emotions and does a thousand foolish things. It's pretty hard to crowd all the inheritance we get from our barbarian ancestors into the two-by-four rules of accepted conduct in polite society. The thing Mrs. Chaplin is up against is the untutored, emotional, instinctive, thoughtless, so-called mind of a surprisingly large part of the general public.

From Our Readers.

These Mothers Talk Sense.

Editor Star—Since the beginning of the juvenile crime wave, we have been doing some very serious thinking. Both having boys—one just past the school age and one in high school—we can realize what our mothers of today have to contend with, and on talking this over with other mothers, we find they all feel very much the same.

While we as Christian mothers realize the great need of Christian training in the home and a greater knowledge of the Bible, we also know from personal observation that boys who have had these great advantages sometimes go wrong.

Christian charity should keep us from putting the blame on parents unless we are acquainted with all the details and know they are to blame. On the other hand, there are other things too apparent to overlook which might have much bearing on the subject.

We no doubt all learned the old saying, "The devil finds work for idle hands to do"—and yet we force our boys to remain idle during the very years when the mind is the most active and at the time when they are forming habits that last a lifetime. And many times boys depend on a father to furnish them money when they are better able to earn for themselves. And many times father can not furnish it and, because we take away the chances of getting it honestly, the temptation comes to get it dishonestly and they yield to the temptation. Again, we force our boys to go to school and after they get in high school they rebel, and, because they are compelled to go against their will, they go to put in the time. And that is all they do, and so waste their time and gain nothing. Now if we would save our boys, let's wake up and give them a chance to work and grow up industrious men and not idlers. We feel that mothers should have a chance to express their views on this matter as it so vitally concerns them.

Mrs. M. Hildreth.

Cut Out Maudlin Sympathy.

Editor Star—Public speakers and writers can not devote their efforts to a greater cause than the cause of law and religion.

However, the man who does the most pious and inspirational talking about the paramount importance of team-work is generally playing his own game. We all know what it requires to build strong character, and what are the disintegrating forces tearing it down. And, regardless of all divorce court statistics, few parents refuse to attend to the same. If we can ascertain where youth is tempted to its fall, we should eliminate the source of pollution at any cost. Money must never be permitted to weigh against human life, virtue, manhood and the welfare of society.

We must make our city safe to live in. To do this, we must organize public opinion to overcome apathy for crime, and the maudlin sympathy displayed for the criminal. There must be more sympathy for the victim of the criminal, for the police, the prosecutor and the judge who use their efforts to bring him to justice.

Less maudlin sympathy by the public for criminals and more sympathy with law enforcements are needed to control crime conditions.

Church and Mothers Responsible.

Editor Star—Possibly readers of the Star may be interested in hearing a parent's views on Marion's wave of juvenile crime.

Since I have raised seven children—two boys and five girls—I am somewhat acquainted with the difficulties which parents are up against. It is likely true that the trouble is in the home, but we have some conditions in the home for which we are not responsible, and which block our efforts to train our children as they should be trained.

Isn't it true that practically all of the parents in Marion want their children to be good? Rev. Mr. George says that the parents of these youths are honorable and respected citizens and possibly tried to give the children right training; but that we may have allowed conditions—soil— to form, which has blocked their efforts. Now I want to point out just what those evil conditions are. Rev. Mr. Allen hints at this condition when he says: "If children were raised in homes like I had, dad would know where they were every night."

We older people know that dad hasn't the authority in the home today that he had when we were boys. There has been a change in the home. Mother has been "emancipated!"

Well, why hasn't mother as good a right to rule in the home as father has?

Mother's rule is based on love, sympathy, gentleness—and much talk. When dad ruled, he said what we should do and he had the strength and harshness to insure it being done.

All parents want their children to be good, and they give the children good advice, but it takes more than talk, to get the children to do right.

When the wife opposes the husband's effort at disciplining the children, he is generally willing to turn the task over to her. You would not have him quarrel with his wife, would you? Why then do you blame him for lax discipline?

I am not putting the blame on the women, either. It was men who took the word "obey" out of the marriage ritual.

As Rev. Mr. Smiley suggests, divorce is closely related to juvenile delinquency.

After ten years of special study on this subject I am sure—sure as faith can be sure—that part of the church is responsible for this wave of juvenile crime.

I also have some definite evidence that children are inheriting a spirit of disobedience from "emancipated" mothers.

CITIES RESUME FIGHT AGAINST GAS RATE RAISE

Marion and More Than 70 Other Ohio Municipalities Affected by Proposal

The fight against increased gas rates in Marion and more than 70 other Ohio cities is again in progress before the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio at its office in Columbus where hearings on protests filed against the new rate schedule of the Logan Gas Co. was resumed yesterday afternoon.

Officials of six of the 72 cities affected by the rate boost are heading the fight, Marion being represented by Grant E. Mouser, Jr., former city solicitor who is now connected with the attorney general's office. When he resigned as solicitor here early in January to go into the state service, Mr. Mouser was appointed by Council to act as special counsel for this city in the rate controversy, in which he has been active since the protests were first filed.

Today W. H. Weiss, valuation engineer of Cincinnati, employed by the protesting cities to handle the technical side of the controversy, was to testify before the commission.

Valuation Placed

A valuation of $52,000,000 has been placed upon the Logan Gas Co. property in estimates submitted to the commission, and Mr. Mouser and his associates fighting the rates contend that this is greatly in excess of the actual replacement value of the property. Engineer Weiss has been collecting data on this phase of the controversy and was expected in his testimony today to attack the $52,000,000 appraisal.

Cross Examined

Yesterday, E. G. Hill, New York engineer representing the gas company, was cross-examined on technical phases of the method of arriving at the high valuation.

Although 72 cities are in the Logan Gas Co. territory affected by the rate schedule, some of them have adopted ordinances accepting the new rates and are not parties to the present proceedings.

In addition to Mr. Mouser, who represents Marion in the hearing now in progress, City Solicitors D. W. Myers of Elyria, J. W. Miller of Bucyrus, M. D. Hughes of Athens, C. S. Huffman of Ashland and Clarence Dewald of Crestline are present and taking part in directing the fight against the rate schedule.

The controversy has been in progress more than a year. Several hearings have been held, the one now in progress having been delayed as the result of the cities having requested more information on the gas company valuation.

Collecting Under Bond

The disputed rates are now being collected under provisions of the Pence law, which permits public utility companies to put new rate schedules into effect in spite of protests by filing a guarantee refund bond. Should the Logan Gas Co. schedule be cancelled, it will be required to make refunds to all of its customers.

A bill providing for repeal of the Pence law is to come before the state legislature at its present session. The repeal move is backed by city solicitors engaged in the present controversy, their claim being that the law is unfair to the public.

VALUATION NOTICES NOT TO BE SENT THIS YEAR

County Officials Say Sending of Individual Statements Entails Too Much Work

Marion County taxpayers will not receive individual notices of the valuation of their property under the reappraisal, it was announced today by County Auditor B. G. Decker.

By doing away with the work of sending out separate notices of the values of each piece of property, it is believed that the tax collection will be set forward several weeks. Instead of spending time and money mailing each taxpayer a notice of the value of his land the auditor's force will be busy on the books, putting them in shape to turn over to the treasurer when the time comes.

It is estimated that three weeks would be needed to fill out and mail the 10,000 or more separate notices to taxpayers. This would mean another three weeks delay in tax collection.

The only notice to taxpayers to be given on the reappraisal will be the usual advertisement, announcing that the values have been set. This method of handling notice of the reappraisal has been approved by the state tax commission, Decker stated.

Hundreds of persons have looked over the reappraisal since it was completed last October, and no complaints have been filed as yet. There are very few persons in the county who do not know what the value on their land now is, and the books are open to anyone wanting to find out.

WHEN YOUR FOOD FAILS TO DIGEST

And Gurgles up in Sour Risings or Heartburn

Try a little diapepsin. Beats the world for stomach comfort. Hard to tell what upsets a stomach. Sometimes it's milk or fresh bread or steak and onions. Almost anything will cause gas, dizziness or heartburn. But whatever it is diapepsin works like magic. It actually digests food, rests the stomach, absorbs the sour, acid, brashy risings from whatever cause. Even in the morning, if you get up with a coated tongue, feel nauseated and the thought of breakfast repels food, one or two diapepsins will make you feel good and want to eat.

Anyone at the mercy of restaurants and lunch counters can fortify their stomach against trouble with one or two diapepsins after eating.

Get a 60 cent package of Pape's Diapepsin at any drug store. You'll enjoy the effect.—Adv.

Arrangements are being made for a formal opening, but no date has been set. The time of the opening will be decided upon after the old stock is disposed of and the new arrives.

More About Credit —

In furniture stores there are some forms of so-called "credit" that people don't like. Customers are penalized because they ask for long-time credit. They don't get the same quality of merchandise that is sold to the "cash" customer—and they certainly are asked a higher price—sometimes an outrageously higher price.

We would like to have it become generally known that while we allow extended credit—a year, or more if necessary—we figure this as only an extension of the 30-day or 60-day "charge account" credit. There is no difference in our merchandise. There is no difference in our price.

We want trade, but we also want the respect and friendship of every customer. That's why we do not exploit the family that wishes, or needs, long-time credit.

Furniture of Yesterday —

Have you an old photograph album in your home? If so, doesn't it shock you to look back through it?

The times have changed—not only in dress, but in home furnishing. The furniture of ten and more years ago is rapidly disappearing in the home of today.

A visit to Schaffner's will tell you whether or not your home is modernly furnished. If you still have pieces that "no longer belong" please remember that you can turn them in as part payment on purchases of new, stylish, much-more-comfortable furniture.

Our Exchange, or "Trade-In" Department has been the means of changing the "dress" of transforming many homes. You are invited to come in and discuss it with us.

Stomach Trouble Gone, Bakes 40 Pies

"I was a nervous wreck with stomach trouble. Had dizzy spells and could scarcely walk. I began taking Adlerika, and now I run a restaurant and bake 40 pies a day. When my friends ask how I do it, I tell them about Adlerika."—Mrs. L. Amrol.

Adlerika differs from most medicines because it acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel. It gives the system a REAL cleansing, and clears out old poisons which usually cause sour, gassy stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache. Just ONE spoonful stops GAS, and relieves that full, bloated feeling so that you can eat better and sleep better. Even if bowels move daily, Adlerika brings out much additional poison which you never guessed was in your system and which may have long caused trouble. No matter what you have tried for stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At Bradley's Drug Store and other druggists.—Adv.

Large Number Attend United Brethren Church

A well-filled auditorium heard the sermon on the subject, "Sanitation or Cranktification" preached by Rev. W. H. Howard, pastor, at the revival service at the First United Brethren Church last night.

"The Life of God as implanted in the soul by regeneration and sanctification is the perpetuation of that life," Reverend Howard began. "Santification means holiness of heart and the exercise of the soul in the duties of practical godliness. The philosophers of the ages have not been wise enough to outwit the Lord in anything He said."

"If some or all of our higher critics would live with the Lord a little more and not presume too much on their thin imagination they would accomplish more for hte Lord and many more souls would be led into the light," Reverend Howard said in part. "Sanctification is progressive and not instantaneous. There is no such thing as instantaneous manhood or instantaneous daylight, or freezing, or plant life. Where the understanding grows in knowledge and where the conscience is centered in purity and where the body and soul are concentrated in the service of God, there can be no mistaken idea as to the possibility of full and complete sanctification."

B. K. Hill directs the choir and congregation in special vocal numbers at each service, Rev. Howard will preach on the subject, "The Man Who Had a Dream" at the service tonight.

CHAPTER THIRTY

The Center again broke in on my thoughts.

"Mr. Quexter," he said, "I not detain you any further. Today is eighth. You will be most honored guest till fifteenth. You will live in other wing of house with patients. After fifteenth we see, but perhaps, if you no longer foolish man, I let you go."

He struck the gong as he finished speaking, and two Japanese servants and the butler appeared.

"You please follow these men," said the Center. "I think you prefer rest of day to recover. Decease of friend very bad effect though much comfort in honorable exit. My servant conduct you to private room for grief and reflection. To aid peace of mind, I tell you quite impossible to escape from patients' wing. Yess. You understand when you get there. I give orders you to dine alone tonight. Tomorrow you dine with patients."

I rose in silence and followed the butler, the two Japanese servants falling in behind me. They took me down a long corridor and up a flight of steps, which ended in an oak door. The butler unlocked this and we passed through. The other side of the door, I noticed, was heavily padded.

We proceeded along another corridor with doors on either side. From the moment we entered this place, the silence which had hitherto reigned was broken. The air was full of voices, babbling and talking, of what I could not hear, and every now and then there came a shriek as of some one in pain or terror.

Once I heard the words, "The great snake! The great snake! It is crushing me!"

My jailers, however, took no notice of the noises, and we continued along the corridor to the father end, where the butler pushed open a door and motioned me to enter.

The room was an odd shape, very narrow for its length.

"You must be content with this room," said the butler suddenly. "All the others are occupied. We only use this when the wing is full."

He bowed and went from the room, shutting the door behind him, and I turned to examine my new prison. It was small and painted white, with a single bed and a washstand let into the wall. It was clean and cool and the floor was tiled. In front of the window were long iron bars, which made it impossible to touch the glass. The window could be opened, I noticed, by a system of cords and pulleys. I immediately seized hold of the cords and threw the window wide.

A breath of mountain air came through, and I stood holding on to the bars, looking out, drinking in the clean wind and striving vainly to collect my thoughts. Outside, the great shoulder of a mountain rose in a rugged mass to the sky, now tinted in exquisite lemon color as the sun sank slowly to the west. In the middle foreground was the pine wood which I had noticed from below, and between it and the house was the same rough sward on which I had seen the wolfhounds. Immediately below me I spied the reason for the Center's remark that escape was impossible. On this side of the house, situated some twenty or thirty feet away, ran a high fence made, so far as I could see, of steel wire, closely meshed utterly unclimbable and impenetrable. Even if it had been possible to get beyond the fence, there was still the inhospitable wood and the savage wolf hounds.

I turned away, sat down on the bed and buried my face in my hands.

Claypole was dead. That was what I had to get into my head. Worse than that, he had died by his own hand. The thing seemed to me incredible. I could not believe it. Yet, how else was I to explain the facts? He had been watched by this relentless organization, and under the influence of I knew not what terror and persecution, he had thrown himself into the Rhone. The evidence was appallingly complete and circumstantial. Had they not actually recovered his body and found the handkerchief? There was no getting past the facts.

Finally, there was his pathetic letter. "I guess I'm a quitter," he had said. I couldn't believe it.

I take no credit to myself, but I do not think that as I sat there I gave any thought to myself or to my own position. My mind was wholly occupied with the ghastly tragedy which Baldassare had so callously related. That my gallant, light-hearted, staunch little friend should have been driven to take his own life came near to destroying my faith in human nature.

I was roused from these gloomy reflections by the entry of the inevitable Japanese servant bearing on a tray what proved to be a very excellent light dinner, with half a bottle of passable Swiss white wine.

"His Excellency," said the servant, as he set the tray on the table near the bed, "sends book if you want to read," and he handed me a copy of De Quincey's "Confessions of an Opium Eater."

I cannot say that I enjoyed that meal, well cooked though it was. I ate it mechanically, because I was hungry, and all the while I was trying again to review my position. Now that Claypole was dead, I could no longer hope for any outside assistance. I still did not know where I was, except that I was shut up in a house known to the world as Doctor Kuntz's Home. Exactly what that designation might cover and where it might be I had not the slightest idea. From the sounds I had so far heard, it seemed to be some kind of private asylum for lunatics. I had not yet set eyes on Doctor Kuntz, and was more than inclined to imagine him as an alias employed by the infamous little Japanese.

I was to stay here apparently until the fifteenth, on which date I might perhaps be released, if they were satisfied as to my bona fides.

Finally, there was Patience. I had been frank with her, and I had, I thought, secured her friendly interest. Her keen distress of my being put to the torture gave me every reason to believe that I might count on her help if ever she were in a position to afford it. I wondered how she would behave when we met again, or whether indeed we should ever meet.

After a while I got ready for bed, finding a pair of my own pajamas, which had been among the linen I had collected from the ill-starred laundry. But I found sleep impossible. It was very calm and still outside, and I could see the pale stars of Leo slinking slowly to the west.

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

LITTLE PLOT

At Lillian's query as to how I was to manage an opportunity for Mary to meet Noel Veritzen I shook my head.

"I confess I'm at sea," I said. "Of course, it's a very easy matter to invite him here to dinner—in fact, I already have told him that I wanted him to come to us for dinner some evening. I never have sent him a definite date however. But I am afraid Mary will balk at meeting him, I fancy. I told you that Jack Leslie improved the time of his meetings with her to fill her brain with his side of that old feud with the Veritzens. I am sure she believes Jack Leslie to be innocent and persecuted, and that she regards Philip Veritzen as a cruel and unscrupulous persecutor, as well as being overmuch touted in his line. Whether or not she believes Noel to be a thief, as Leslie undoubtedly has told her, I do not know. But it's going to be a delicate job to have him."

"I'll radio the ships at sea, it's all of that, and then some," Lillian commented. "But all of this is all the more reason why the little idiot should be given an opportunity to see for herself how perfectly fascinating Noel Veritzen is. He's too much the son of his father not to have well-nigh irresistible ways with him as far as women are concerned."

We were looking directly at each other as she spoke, and I fancied I saw a distinct twinkle of her eyes as she referred to the elder Veritzen. I was furious with myself that I could not keep my eyes expressionless. I knew that she was enjoying my embarrassment with delicate, good-humored malice.

"Mary's sixteen," she said, after a pause, and I thanked my particular little joss that she had switched her subject of conversation, "and at that age novelty is the greatest attraction in the world. But she mustn't be given a chance to anticipate his coming and thus set her prejudices against him. We must take her by surprise. But how? That's the question."

She cupped her chin in her palms with her elbows on her knees, in the old familiar attitude. But she only remained in that position for the fraction of a minute. Then she sprang to her feet.

"I have it," she said. "I'll invite you and Dicky and Mary over some evening, after I have made sure that Noel Veritzen can come to me on that evening. We'll say nothing to Mary about it, so when she arrives there will be nothing for her to do but be courteous. I'll trust Noel to keep up his end when he catches sight of her. She is the loveliest thing."

"But, Lillian, how," I began, then relapsed into shocked silence as I realized that, carried away by my concern for Mary, I almost had asked her how she could manage to entertain us at dinner in her limited quarters at the second-rate hotel in which she was living.

To Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Take but a moment to make.

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is, pine has a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. This makes a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and hoarseness.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and palatable guaiacol, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

A Gain in Efficiency

The Hocking Valley Railway had a share in the record-breaking accomplishments of the Railroads of America during 1926. Figures for the first eleven months of that year, compared with figures for the corresponding period of 1925, show the following increases in efficiency of service, and in economy of operation:

Train miles per train hour increased from 9.1 to 11.0 or 19.87 per cent.

Gross tons per train increased from 2,690 to 2,867 or 6.4 per cent.

Gross ton miles per train hour increased from 24,513 to 31,541 or 28.77 per cent.

Net ton miles per car day increased from 665 to 787 or 18.37 per cent.

Car miles per car day increased from 25.5 to 29.4 or 15.87 per cent.

Net ton miles increased from 2,450,733,000 to 2,476,514,000.

Pounds of coal per 1,000 gross ton miles, decreased from 130 to 122 or 6.20 per cent.

We take pardonable pride in the volume and character of service rendered, and in the recognition by the public of the aim of the Carriers to give adequate, safe and dependable transportation.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

When Baby Complains.

There are many ways a baby has of expressing any pain or irregularity or digression from its normal condition of health and happiness. A short sharp cry, a prolonged irritated cry. Restlessness, a constant turning of the head or of the whole body, fretful. In these and other ways a baby tells you there is something wrong. Most mothers know that a disordered stomach, or bowels that do not act naturally are the cause of most of baby's sufferings. A call for the doctor is the first thought, but in the event of any delay there should be ready at hand a safe remedy such as Fletcher's Castoria.

Castoria has been used for baby's ailments for over 30 years and has merited the good will of the family physician in a measure not equaled by any other baby's medicine because of its harmlessness and the good results achieved.

And remember this: Castoria is essentially a baby's remedy and not a cure-all for every member of the family. What might help you is too often dangerous when given to a babe.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

So Soft—So White

By Edna Wallace Hopper.

Nearly every woman who sees them envies me my hands. They ask me how I keep them so soft, so white, so young.

They know that I travel all the time. My stage work encounters all sorts of grime and dirt. In most cities the water is hard. Yet the most sheltered women rarely have such hands. They never chap.

The reason lies in a hand lotion perfected for me by great experts. I apply it whenever I wash my hands. It is not greasy or sticky. It disappears at once. And it overcomes all that water does, all that soap does, all that grime does to the hands. Also all that weather does, all that the years do. My own hands form evidence supreme.

This hand lotion is now supplied by all toilet counters. It is called Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Hand Lotion. The price is 60c.

I urge you to try it. I think I have tried nearly everything of this kind, but nothing compares with it. Your druggist can obtain it for you. If he does not [illegible]

Winter Months are Danger Months!

The Time of Year Good Physical Condition Counts Most

STATISTICS show February and March are the months of greatest sickness. Winter's colds, chills and sudden changes, indoor life and lack of fresh air and exercise, place heavier burdens on our eliminative organs. Too often sluggishness of function results.

It is the duty of the kidneys to keep the blood stream free from the poisons of bodily waste. Retention of this toxic waste is apt to make one listless, tired and achy. A dull, toxic backache is often a symptom, with drowsy headaches and dizziness. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions.

If you have reason to believe your kidneys are acting sluggishly, assist them with a tested diuretic*. Millions have used Doan's Pills. They are endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Steam Shovels Wallop Barberton Quintet, 44-22

Local Five Comes to Life In Second Half; Reserves Play During Last Quarter

Shovels Unable To Find Each Other In First Half, but Step Lively in Third Period; Two New Men, Sacksteder and Matusoff, Play Good Game; Schwab Makes 18 Points

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB
Sports Editor, The Star

IT took members of the Marion Steam Shovel basketball team 20 minutes to find each other on the hardwood floor in the Shovel gym last night but when they finally did get the location—well, the final score was 44 to 22, with the Shovels topping the visiting Barberton, O., team, representing Stiver Brothers of that city.

The first half ended 18 to 10 in favor of the local quintet but the second stringers were playing Barberton before the contest came to a close. The teamwork, or excuse for teamwork, displayed by the Shovels in the initial portion of the fray, failed to particularly arouse the enthusiasm of the spectators. About once every two minutes, the Marion crew managed to plow through the fast Barberton defense and drop in a bucket but aside from those outbursts, the local outfit was outplayed consistently in passing and teamwork.

But the second half was a different story. Five minutes after the third period got under way, the Marion men were running wild with a 28 to 12 score. They continued to step all over the struggling Barberton cagers. With the score standing 44 to 20 and three minutes to go, the Shovels' second team was placed in the game.

Two New Men

Two new men, Norb Sacksteder and Matusoff of Dayton, played with the Shovel five last night. Sacksteder started at back guard and stayed there until the subs were shoved into battle. Matusoff began festivities at forward but did not start the second half, Compton going in for Bohyer at guard and Bohyer taking the Dayton player's position at forward. Schwab played center and Wilson played forward until someone knocked the wind out of him and Matusoff was again thrown into action. Manager Bacon of the Shovels was in Delaware, refereeing the Wesleyan-Denison cage tilt.

During the first half, with Compton and Bacon out, and the two new men in the game, the Shovel players were completely lost. The ball either went wild or into the hands of an opposing man on every other pass. The visitors rushed about the floor, grabbing passes at every interval. In fact, the Barberton team had the sphere the greater share of the time in the first half.

Compton Goes In

In the second half, however, with Baldy Compton relieving Matusoff and Bohyer back at his old position of forward, the Marionites shot back into their old form. Wilson played probably his best all-round game of the year and brought cheer after cheer from fans as he repeatedly took the ball out of the hands of the Barberton players. When he was finally forced out of the fray with injuries, the crowd gave him a great ovation in recognition of his brilliant work.

Harry Schwab became angry in the second half and made six baskets. He seemed unable to connect in the first stanza and was credited with only two field goals and a couple of free throws. Sacksteder performed brilliantly in the guard position but Matusoff did not look as good as Bohyer or Wilson at the forward post.

Smith at center for Barberton made 10 of the 22 points scored by his team. Kee at guard connected for three field goals. The Barberton outfit was fast and played a nice brand of basketball but was simply not good enough to beat the strong Marion quintet.

UNCOVER NEW OLYMPIC MATERIAL IN CONTESTS

Many Stellar Performers Take Part in Annual Millrose Games

New York, Feb. 3—New timber for the 1928 Olympics was uncovered last night at the annual Millrose games in the performances of Leo Lermond, Boston, and M. J. Dalton, Seton Hall, in the special two-mile run; Charles Major, St. Bonaventure College, in the high jump, and Ernest Morrill, Boston College, in the sprints. Major, a negro, gave the best performance of the evening when he leaped 6 feet 5⅝ inches in the high jump to beat the record-holding Osborn and others and narrowly missed a world's indoor record at 6 feet 6½ inches. Osborn's performance of 6 feet 1 inch was disappointing.

Lermond, a novice in racing experience, ran the two mile field into the ground to win in the excellent time of 9:15 2-5. Ove Anderson, of Finland, closed strongly to take second place from Dalton but the latter gave an excellent account of himself until two laps from home. Morrill beat Francis Bonny, former national sprint champion, in the 40-yard invitation.

One world's record fell during the games, Paul Harrington, former Notre Dame man, clearing 13 feet ⅝ inches in the pole vault. He was the outstanding performer.

REISELT SHINES

Proves Himself Worthy of Title in Billiard Tournament

Chicago, Feb. 3—Proving himself a worthy champion, Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, who is defending his national title in the round robin three-cushion billiard tournament here, today was one of three players, in a field of ten, who has not yet lost a game.

Reiselt kept his slate clean last night by defeating Campanioni, the Cuban champion, in the semi-final performance of the evening, 50 to 29. The Cuban showed flashes of brilliance, at one time making a run of six, but he was not match for the wizardry of Reiselt.

MARION VOLLEYBALLERS GO TO COLUMBUS FRIDAY

First and Second Representative Y. M. C. A. Teams Will Meet Columbus Men

Marion's first and second representatives Y. M. C. A. volleyball teams will journey to Columbus Friday night for games with representative volleyballers of the Y. M. C. A. in that city. The games will be played in the Y. M. C. A. gym at Columbus and will be called at 7:30 o'clock.

The local teams have been going good so far this season, having won victories over Lima and Tiffin here last week. Charley Isaly captains the Marion first team.

The Columbus teams will form plenty of opposition and will without a doubt be more difficult to defeat than either Lima or Tiffin.

ANTHONYS BEAT LOGAN TEAM IN TRIO OF GAMES

Marion County Lumber Bowlers Defeat Displaymen in Industrial League

Marion County Lumber Co. bowlers last night won two cage games from Displaymen while Anthonys were topping the Logan-Gasmen in three consecutive contests in the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Bowling League matches.

Displaymen took the first tilt from the Lumbermen but were unable to connect for the final two frays. Murphy, with 194 points, was high man for Displaymen and Dorward led the Marion County Lumber with 191 plus. Rice aided greatly in defeating Logans when he rolled 223 in the final game for Anthonys. Shaffstall's 188 mark was high for the Gasmen.

In the regular Business Women's bowling session last night Porter's team took two from the crew led by Smit, Sautter won two from Oberlander, and Blum and Slagle divided honors in a double bill.

Y. M. C. A. WINS

Representative Volleyball Team Beats Steam Shovel Crew

The Y. M. C. A. volleyball team last night defeated the Marion Steam Shovels in three contests in preliminaries to the Steam Shovel-Barberton basketball game. A fourth game, in which part of the Shovel team played with the Y. M. C. A. and vice versa, went to the group led by Charles Isaly.

The Y. M. C. A. volleyballers won the first two games, 15-5, and took the final tilt, 15-10.

Kenton Reds Defeat Whiz Bang Five, 24-20; Great Isaly Fray Here Tonight

Capt. Billy's Globe Trotters Smart Under Third Defeat of Season and Prepare To Take Out Revenge on Dairies Tonight; Boyd's Furnitures Play Midways in Preliminary

Smarting under a 24 to 20 defeat administered last night by the Kenton Reds, Capt. Billy's Whiz Bang globe-trotting basketball team tonight will invade the Star Auditorium in an angry mood for the battle with the Isaly Dairy crew.

Capt. Billy's gang last night suffered the third defeat of the season. The globe-trotters have won 21 games on their tours so far this season and are not just exactly familiar with the word defeat. The Kenton Reds, armed with the Columbus Kinnear lineup, pulled the unexpected last night and threw the winning Whiz Bang outfit for a loss.

But it was far from a great defeat and the fact that the Kinnears could only down the visitors by a four-point margin is enough to convince Marion fans that Isalies will have one tough time winning a basketball game tonight against a group of Minnesota travelers.

Whiz Bangers Go Hot

From all reports, the Whiz Bangers were plenty hot in their clash with the Reds and lost out when the Kenton crew took a sudden spurt for the good during the last minutes. Not having an opportunity to avenge their defeat by again tackling the Reds, Capt. Billy's troupers will take out their vengeance on Isalies tonight or at least will attempt something like that.

The Dairies are all set with their regular lineup to stop any kind of an invasion. They have pulled out of one slump this season and hardly expect to fall into another. The locals are in the best condition of the season. They have held a couple of practice sessions since defeating the Indiana Dries last week and look better than ever before on the hardwood floor.

Miller on Hand

Miller will be found in his old position at back guard with Applegett as his running mate. Perry and Taghanen or Phillians will start at forwards and Minard will act as pivot man. This combination has proven one of the best in Ohio and the Whiz Bang will find it as tough as the Kenton Red aggregation.

Boyd's Furnitures of LaRue will come here tonight for a game with the Midways for the preliminary event to the main game. The Midways have not lost a home game this season and expect to keep up the good work. The Furnitures have already suffered one defeat on the local court and hardly expect to again go down before the Midways. Be that as it may, the preliminary will be crowded with excitement and thrills.

The first game will start at 7:15 and the second contest will begin at 8:35 o'clock.

HILDEBRANDT'S TEAM DEFEATS COULTER'S MEN

Five Minute Overtime Period Necessary To Decide Volleyball Winner

In a game featured by a five-minute overtime period, Hildebrandt volleyballers last night defeated Coulter's men, 37 to 35, in the third round of games at the Y. M. C. A. Cunningham trounced Murphy, 32 to 23 and Clark defeated Brown 29 to 26 in the other two games.

The teams participating in the regular volleyball games are composed of players not on the first or second Y. M. C. A. representative volleyball teams.

Interest in the games continues and a number of spectators filled the gym last night to witness the netball contests.

DUFFY SUSPENDED

Oakland, Cal., Feb. 3—Jimmy Duffy, Oakland welterweight, was under suspension today because of his refusal to accept the boxing commission's referee picked to officiate in his scheduled fight with Young Harry Wills here last night. Promoter Tommy Simpson cancelled the entire bill when Duffy's manager said his boxer would not appear if Toby Irwin was the third man in the ring.

HARDING CAGERS TO PLAY GALION HI HERE FRIDAY

Will Attempt To Break Losing Streak in N. C. O. League Games

Harding High will meet another tough North Central Ohio League opponent here Friday night when it bucks up against the Galion High basketball team in the Star auditorium.

It seems to us that its about time for the Marion lads to pull down a victory in the league. They've been playing good basketball during the season but have not yet won an N. C. O. League game. After suffering three defeats during the last three weeks, two on foreign floors and one on the home court, the local high school quintet hopes to finally break up its losing streak Friday night.

Galion has lost a game to Ashland, which is no dishonor, and has defeated Shelby, which is no great honor. Harding has lost to Bucyrus, Mansfield and Delaware, three of the strongest teams in the league. Galion High is tied with Bucyrus for second place while Harding reposes in last place with Shelby as a companion.

Harding High lost its first N. C. O. League game at Mansfield because of stage fright. Its second defeat came at Bucyrus and was due largely to its inability to connect with the bucket although attempts were plentiful. Last week, Delaware completely outplayed the local five in the final half and walked off with a 19 to 13 score.

Galion has played only two games this season and has shown plenty of ability in those contests, although outplayed by the hot-stepping Ashland outfit. On the Galion squad is Sawyer, former Marion youth, who was once a star on the Midget team here. Sawyer has been going good this season and may play against his former school.

The starting lineup for the locals will not be known until a few minutes before the game. Joe Rinnert is again back on the squad after a two weeks' lay-off with an injured ankle. He probably will not get into the game with Galion, however, due to the weakness of the injured member.

Martel and Kirkpatrick to Tangle in East County League Cage Tilt Friday

Martel Has Chance To Cop Title or Tie for League Honors If It Wins Against Kirk; Caledonia, Pleasant, Waldo and Green Camp Have No League Games Scheduled for Friday

BASKETBALL teams of four Marion County High schools have no league games scheduled for Friday. They are Caledonia, Pleasant and Waldo in the east section and Green Camp in the west.

By far the most important and probably most interesting cage fray of the week-end will be the battle between Kirkpatrick boys and the Martel quintet on the Kirkpatrick court. Should Martel lose, it is out of the east league race. If it wins, it has a chance to tie or even win the title.

First Defeat

After winning three consecutive games the Martel crew last week suffered defeat at the hands of Pleasant Township, who had not won a game up to that time. It may be that Martel was a little over-confident, and it may be that they had an off night. At any rate, Pleasant by using its second stringers in the first quarter, pulled a successful Notre Dame performance and sent the title seekers home in anything but a happy mood.

But Martel is far from out of the race. It has won three games and lost one. Caledonia, league leaders, narrowly escaping defeat at the hands of the Waldo invaders last week, has four victories and no defeats to its credit. And, to make things more interesting, there is a scheduled battle between Martel and Caledonia for next week-end, Friday, Feb. 11. Martel should by all means trim the Kirkpatrick boys who are now lodged in last place in the east section with no victories and a trio of defeats.

Claridon girls, who will play Kirkpatrick girls in the first game at Kirkpatrick Friday night, will probably meet defeat. The Claridon girls have no gym in which to hold practice sessions and will also be handicapped by not playing on their home floor, Martel.

Prospect Has It Easy

Prospect will likely massacre the weak Agosta outfit on the Prospect floor Friday night. Prospect boys have already trounced the Agosta crew on one occasion this season and are probably more than glad to have another crack at them. It means another league victory and a step closer to the leading Green Camp basketeers, who will journey to Prospect for a game Friday, Feb. 11.

LaRue will probably have little trouble in defeating Morral boys on the LaRue floor Friday night but Morral girls will probably make "duck soup" out of LaRue girls. The Morral feminine outfit hasn't yet learned what it means to be defeated so far this season and probably never will. They're good and every team in the west section will testify to that statement.

Here's how they stand after last week's games:

SKS BOARD OF EALTH TO AID N SANITATION

ity Sanitation Inspector C. M. Tobin Takes Steps To Solve Garbage Problem

Declaring that he has received numerous complaints about Marion residents who are accused of making a practice of throwing garbage into alleys and streets and also in the halls of apartment houses, C. M. Tobin, city sanitary inspector, has recommended that the City Board of Health issue an order to remedy the situation. This recommendation was made at the board's regular meeting yesterday, and although no definite action was taken, it was indicated that a resolution will be adopted at the next monthly session in order.

In the meantime, Mr. Tobin will take steps to eliminate the trouble, he informed the board. If the suggestion made by him at yesterday's meeting is followed, the board will require all stores and business places to be provided with suitable garbage receptacles and to have the garbage removed in accordance with rules laid down in an ordinance now in effect.

Varied Duties

Mr. Tobin's monthly report covered a wide range of duties performed during January. In addition to being Sanitary Inspector, he also serves as the city's relief officer in looking after the needs of poor families of the community.

Since the cold weather season began several weeks ago, Mr. Tobin reported, there has been a large increase in the number of calls for aid received by the relief department. Coal, groceries and other supplies have been furnished families where destitution has resulted from sickness and other causes.

Numerous cases of flu have developed throughout the city, the relief officer stated, and the spread of this cold weather ailment has been the cause of many calls for assistance.

Gruber's Report

The board also received the monthly report of Dr. J. T. Gruber, head of the city's milk and meat inspection department which showed that during January he granted 89 permits for milk sales and turned down 80 applications. Permits were refused where producers had failed to comply with all of the department's requirements.

Thirty-three dairy cattle were given tuberculin tests and two of the animals were found to be "reactors," Dr. Gruber reported. Those two cows, in addition to a third condemned for other reasons than from tubercular infection, were ordered removed from dairy service and killed.

During the last two months, the city inspector has been making a complete survey of dairy farms which supply the Marion market and has made a general test of cattle in order to eliminate all cases of tubercular infection.

eaceful Foreign Relations Being Stressed by Present German Government

Berlin, Feb. 3—Consolidation of the rman government, renunciation of y spirit of revenge, and a policy of derstanding with all nations of the rld, were declared as the policy of new German cabinet introduced to Reichstag today by Chancellor Marx. Some members of the cabinet were merly bitter enemies of the republic, the chancellor declared that all had animously pledged themselves to uphold the Weimar constitution.

Marx said neither he or Dr. Stresean would have consented to remain office if they had not been given absolute continuance of the foreign icy constituted at Geneva and carno. This approval has the back- of all government parties, he said. "My allusion to Locarno and the ague of course does not mean that government lessens its efforts to ter relations with other nations, ecially the Soviet republic and the at American nation," said Marx. ur policy of understanding includes the peoples of the world."

Denison Does Unexpected And Downs Bishops, 24-23

Delaware, O., Feb. 3—Denison did the unexpected here last night by downing Ohio Wesleyan's cage team in one of the closest contests of the season here. The final count was 24-23.

Denison's Big Red team, considered out of the running for Buckeye Athletic association honors swept like a tornado through the Bishop defense and spoiled Wesleyan's perfect record in the six-school loop.

Wesleyan led at the half 11-8 but English, one of Denison's newly eligible men proved to be the savior of the Baptists, his five baskets, four of them in the last half spelled victory for the Denisonians.

15 DISTILLERS ASK PERMIT TO MAKE WHISKY

No Ruling To Be Made Pending Some Form of Legislation

Washington, Feb. 3—Fifteen distillers already have started a fight for permits to manufacture medicinal whisky, having filed applications with the treasury department, it was learned today.

Pending final action by congress on some form of medicinal control legislation no ruling on the applications will be made by Gen. L. C. Andrews, dry chief.

Distillers are getting "in on the ground floor" anticipating defeat of any control bill in congress, according to officials.

Although still hopeful of the enactment of a satisfactory bill, in spite of rejection of the tresaury's proposals by the house ways and means committee, General Andrews has instructed subordinates to prepare data as to liquor requirements, proper formulae and as to distillers in a position to manufacture whisky.

"It will be necessary to devise a system under which permits may be granted, determine the quantity of the liquor to be produced, where it will be concentrated and how supervised, should the treasury be forced to handle this problem under legislation," Andrews said.

Andrews declined to anticipate the result of manufacture of medicinal liquor under existing laws. Officials admitted, however, that the job of supervising manufacturers scattered all over the country will be tremendous and expensive. The question of allocation of permits will involve ticklish problems of politics.

What a man praises most wholeheartedly, if he likes it, is his food.

10 Men Arrested in Sensational Raids at Kenton

FEDERAL AND STATE AGENTS INVADE LAIRS

Five of Group Plead Guilty to Liquor Charges Before Forest Mayor

Kenton, Feb. 3—A series of sweeping and sensational raids by 15 federal and state agents here Wednesday afternoon resulted in the arrest of 10 local men on charges varying from possession of materials designed for the manufacture of intoxicating liquor to keeping places where intoxicating beverages were sold.

Traveling in a half dozen automobiles, the authorities swooped down on the city without warning raiding several alleged liquor "joints." Preparatory to the raids agents have been scouting about the city during the past several days gathering evidence, it was said.

Taken To Forest

The defendants were arraigned before Mayor Jean Simpson of Forest, late yesterday afternoon, the last being brought into court long after 5 o'clock. While the men were arrested on federal and state warrants, Mayor Simpson said, all were tried before him on state charges.

Five pleaded guilty before the Forest mayor and were assessed heavy fines while the remaining five denied the charges and were held under heavy bond for trial next Wednesday morning. According to Mayor Simpson the following were arraigned in his court:

Five Plead Guilty

Arthur Hites, charged with possession, selling and keeping a place where intoxicating liquor was sold; pleaded guilty; $1,000 fine and costs.

Morris Trent, possession, 2 charges of selling and keeping a place where intoxicating liquor was sold; pleaded guilty; $1,000 fine and costs.

M. L. Anderson, possession, 3 charges of selling and keeping a place where intoxicating liquors were sold; pleaded not guilty; bond $2,500.

Earl Getzinger, possession, 3 charges of selling and keeping a place where intoxicating liquors was sold; pleaded guilty; $1,000 fine.

Scott Robey, possession and keeping a place where intoxicating liquor was sold; pleaded not guilty; bond $500.

Jay Jordan, charged with possession and selling intoxicating liquor; pleaded not guilty; bond $1,000.

William B. Wetherill, charged with possession, selling and keeping a place for the sale of liquor; pleaded guilty; $750 fine and costs.

Chester Engle, charged with possession of liquor and possession of materials designed for the manufacture of liquor; pleaded not guilty; bond set at $2,000.

Robert Conners, charged with possession of property designed for the manufacture of liquor; pleaded not guilty; bond $1,000.

Chester Hatch who pleaded guilty to the charge of illegal possession may possibly face other charges, Mayor Simpson said.

Arrangements were being made last night and today for the payment of the fine and costs and the furnishing of bail money, the mayor said. Those pleading not guilty will probably have their trial next Wednesday.

SHOVEL FIREMEN HOLD THEIR ANNUAL MEETING

Talk on Prevention of Factory Blazes Feature Dinner Session

An interesting program of talks in which modern methods of factory fire prevention was the chief topic featured the annual meeting of the Marion Steam Shovel Fire Department, held in the main dining room of the company employes' restaurant last night.

A banquet served at 6 o'clock preceded the program and business meeting. Ray H. King, general superintendent of the company, presided as toastmaster and the principal addresses were given by C. B. King, vice president and general manager, and T. J. McFarland, chief of the city fire department.

In accordance with the annual custom, Chief McFarland was guest of honor. In his talk he commended the Marion Steam Shovel department for its efficiency and also complimented the company for maintaining its fire protection equipment at a high standard.

Only one fire occurred at the plant during 1926, reports showed, and it was extinguished before any damage resulted.

Ray B. King was re-elected chief of the department and Kenneth Sweney secretary.

The Steam Shovel Fire Department is one of the oldest organizations of its kind in the state, having been formed in 1891, nine years after the factory started operations. Several of the men who were on the charter list are still members of the organization, records show.

CONSPIRACY AGAINST BUNDY LETTER CHARGES

Communication Defending Wilberforce University Head Received by State Auditor

Columbus, Feb. 3—Charge that there is a conspiracy at Wilberforce University, near Xenia, to discredit Dr. R. C. Bundy, superintendent at the institution, and other officials there, was contained in a communication made public here today by Joseph Tracy, state auditor.

The communication, addressed to Tracy by Dr. Joseph L. Johnson, Columbus, president of the board of trustees of the combined normal and industrial departments at Wilberforce, referred to a report, also made public today by Tracy, covering an investigation of the records of Wilberforce University.

The investigation conducted by State Examiner E. Frank Brown, dealt with the period from July 1, 1925, to Dec. 9, 1926.

Although the propriety of numerous purchases at the institution, certain practices, and actions of Superintendent Bundy were questioned in the report, there were no findings for recovery, nor no specific allegations of illegal conduct.

CONTRACTORS EXPLAIN SOURCE OF RUMBLINGS

Residents in East Marion Startled by Blastings During Sewer Construction

Many residents of east Marion have had their peaceful slumbers disturbed by ominous rumblings which they have not been able to identify.

All questions on this point were made clear today when Uncapher & Gillespie, contractors, confessed that they are the cause of all the noise. "How do you expect us to lay the new sewer and storm tile in Durfee-dr four feet deep in solid rock and not blast a little?" they ask.

The contractors say that about six feet under the surface they found solid rock which has been causing no small amount of trouble in laying the sewer. This sewer and storm tile is between eight and 12 feet deep under the surface, and will be more than one-half mile in length when completed, and will cost between 18,000 and 20,000, it is claimed.

The laying of this storm sewer parallels closely, as an engineering feat, the laying of Marion's new storm water system some months ago. Actual work has been going on for the past five weeks and it is estimated that it will take at least three months more to complete the work.

HEALTH BOARD RULES AGAINST CESS POOLS

Approves Action of Sanitary Inspector in Objecting to Installation of Tank

Use of cess pools in residence districts where sanitary sewer service is not available will not be permitted by the City Board of Health, it was indicated at the monthly meeting of the board yesterday in the office of Mayor Hazen.

This was made known when C. M. Tobin, city sanitary inspector, reported that he had objected to the installation of cess pools in a new residence district which was recently opened and where construction of homes has been started.

The neighborhood was visited by Mr. Tobin, in company with City Engineer Tom S. Cathers and a representative of the State Board of Health after a local home building contractor had applied for a permit to install the cess pools.

"I objected to installing them from a sanitary standpoint in representing the board of health to the best of my ability," Mr. Tobin stated in his report. The representative of the state board backed up Mr. Tobin's objections, it was stated.

Members of the local board expressed approval of Mr. Tobin's action by declaring that cess pools should not be permitted in any part of the city.

This action indicates that construction of sewers will be necessary to provide homes in all new residence districts with sanitary conveniences.

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

BY JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

This was the second morning that I had to carry Jubilee downstairs and I'm out careful, because I forgot to get the rope and take it up and ide it since my ant scairt me and ade me drop it out of the window, o the first thing I done when I had side the fire and went out with the all was to get the rope and drag it the barn, and then I wound it round and around me under my coat so that I could sneak upstairs with it hen I got in, and when I was going st of the barn the end of it hung ut under my coat and Nibs saw it nd grabbed it and ran, and I span round like a top, and finely sot down the snow with the milk pail in my p, but I didn't spill any of the milk; he bunch hollered and laughed so nd I was afraid my mother would pen the door and look out and onder what I was doing with the ope.

She couldn't look out of the windows ecause they are frosted so. I wound he rope around me again and but-oned my coat, and went in, and the ope was full of snow that began to elt when I got in the house, and I ad such a hard time sneaking up-airs to hide it that I was wet all the way around my stummick, and some f it showed on my coat; and my ant made me open my coat, and felt all around me, and said:

"Now, how in the world did you do that?" I said: "Maybe you don't think milking is hard work. She said: "You are not trying to make me believe that is perspiration?" "What else would it be?" I asted her, so I did not tell a lie. I told her if she had to get up mornings and make fires and milk cows she would be sweaty around—And just then my father butted in and said to let my vitals stop my mouth.

It was pretty cold, so we all went in the basement, and was standing in front of the furnace, and Feeble asted Mush's wife what she et yesterday, and she looked supprized and said "Nothing. Why?" And Feeble said: "You can't fool me. Nobody ever screeched like you did unless she had et something and got cramps." Mush's wife said: "I was singing!" "No, you wasn't," said Feeble, "you can't fool me." "Wasn't I singing?" Mush's wife said to Mush, "Well, you thought you was." Mush told her. And then she hit him a slap and we all ducked out. Feeble is always starting something. It is a good thing Youniss is not like her—but I kinda wisht she was.

Daily Bedtime Story

BY HOWARD GARIS

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

Do you remember me telling you about a queer little Florida rabbit whose daddy put him, while asleep, into a box and sent him up from the warm, sunny Southland to Uncle Wiggily's country of snow? And do you recall how surprised Sunshine Buddy was when he found that the snow, which he had never seen before, wasn't sugar? 'Member? Him!

Well, this is another story about Sunshine or Sunny Buddy as he was called, for he was a bright, cheerful little chap, even if he didn't know much about sliding down hill and skating and all such things.

He can tell us lovely stories about oranges and orange flowers, and pineapples and grapefruit, even if he doesn't know much about ice," said Baby Bunny one day, when Jackie and Sadie Bow Wow, the puppy dog boys, were rather making fun of Sunny Buddy.

Well, another day, when it was almost time for the forty 'leven little rabbits in Uncle Wiggily's bungalow to go to school (and there were forty-seven, counting Baby Bunty), one morning Scooter, a little rabbit boy, happened to say:

"I wish I had some candy to eat at recess!"

"So do I!" chimed in his brother Tooter.

"Oh, candy would be lovely!" sighed Baby Bunty. "Let's go ask Duddleums Uncle Wiggily for some candy to take to school!"

"Oh, let's!" shouted all the other forty 'leven little rabbit boys and girls, dancing up and down. And Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, who had to look them over each morning before they went to school, to see that they had washed behind their ears, was in despair.

"No! No!" squeaked the muskrat lady housekeeper who helped Mrs. Longears wash the beds and dust the dishes. "You must run along to school. Don't go bothering your father for candy or you'll be late!"

But Scooter's wish for sweet stuff, and Baby Bunty's talk about asking Uncle Wiggily for some, had set the whole rabbit band of children on edge and now they were jumping about, shouting and laughing and calling:

"We want candy! We want candy, candy Andy, We want candy!"

"Dear me!" squeaked Nurse Jane, as she got all mixed up looking back of the little bunnies' ears to see if they had washed, and she looked at Jingle's face and didn't glance at Jangle's toe, "Oh, go on to school! Hurry to school or you'll be late!" cried the muskrat lady. But the little rabbits only shouted the more:

"We want candy! We want candy!"

I don't know what might have happened except for Sunny Buddy, that little rabbit chap from the South who was spending his first winter vacation with Uncle Wiggily. Sunny Buddy hopped into the room where all the little rabbits were making such a noise and he called:

"Why, there's a lot of candy hanging from the garage roof! Why don't you take those candy sticks with you?"

"Candy on our garage roof?" exclaimed Scooter. "You must be dreaming, Sunny Buddy!"

"Of course he is!" laughed Tooter.

"I'm not dreaming at all!" answered Sunny Buddy. "I just looked out the window and I see a lot of long, thin sticks of red candy hanging on the edge of the garage roof. I don't know whose it is, but I should think you could go out and pick it!"

"Ha! Ha!" chuckled Jingle. "Sunny Buddy talks of picking candy off a roof just as he might of picking oranges off a lemon tree!"

"He thought snow was sugar!" laughed Jangle.

"Well, you come out and see if red candy sticks aren't hanging from the garage roof!" cried Sunny Buddy. Out ran all the little boy and girl rabbits and Nurse Jane had some peace and quiet. But when Scooter, Tooter and the others stood beneath the garage roof and looked up at Buddy's candy they laughed harder than ever.

"Those are only icicles!" said Tooter.

"What are icicles?" asked Sunny Buddy.

"They are long sticks of frozen ice," said Uncle Wiggily, who hopped along just then. "But I never saw red icicles before. I must see what makes this." The rabbit gentleman got a ladder and climbed to his garage roof. Then he saw where a piece of red paper had fallen in the rain water gutter. The melted snow had soaked the red paper and the color had run down into the long icicles, making them look like sticks of red candy.

"Oh dear!" sighed all the little bunnies when Buddy's candy turned out to be no candy at all. But when Uncle Wiggily heard what they wanted he gave them enough pennies to buy for recess all the real candy that was good for them.

So, after all, Buddy's red icicle candy was of some use.

Don't Let a Cough or Cold 'Go Down'

If you let a cough get down into your bronchial tubes or lungs, it stops being merely a nuisance and becomes a real danger.

A "head cold" is only a bother while it stays in your head. But once it gets down into the danger zone, serious trouble threatens.

Act promptly to check the cough; to keep the head cold from "going down." Sure and lasting relief is as near as the nearest drug store.

Quickly and unfailingly Ayer's Cherry Pectoral goes straight to the seat of danger. Heal medicine, reaching deep with its soothing, healing power, penetrating through and through the irritated membranes of your throat and bronchial tubes.

If you are catching cold; if you have a "head cold"; if your chest is tight; if you have a cough—even if bronchitis has developed—Ayer's Cherry Pectoral at once! Keep your cold from going down into the danger zone.

Cherry Pectoral is pleasant, safe and dependable—for children and grown people. At all druggists—60c; twice as much, $1.00. 1b24b

FEW OIL AND RAILROAD STOCKS ALONE ACTIVE

Buying of Issues in "Merger" Groups Renewed at Opening Gong

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks, strong; industrials, steady; domestic bonds, dull; foreign bonds, firm; call money, four per cent; grain, irregular; copper, steady; oil, steady; cotton, irregular; rubber, steady; sugars, steady; pig iron, reactionary; foreign, steady.

New York, Feb. 3—Outside of the railroad stocks and a few of the oils and motors, the stock market made little progress in either direction today. Active buying was resumed in the "merger rails" with the opening gong, but prices were severely depressed at times by profit-taking and speculative selling, and the market for these stocks was erratic at best.

As an evidence of the highly strained technical market position of Wheeling & Lake Erie common, it was announced that the stock was loaning at 1 1-2 per cent premium. This means that an unfortunate bear who borrowed the stock today would be compelled to pay $150 a day for the use of the stock in making deliveries. As a rule the borrower is paid interest on the money deposited as security for the stocks he borrows.

With merger rumors filling the remote corners of the big financial district, traders were vigilant in their search for stocks of roads which might be of strategic importance in the linking up of powerful transportation systems. Wheeling and Lake Erie common rose an additional 4 points to 72¼, while the preferred sold up to around 80. Chicago Great Western common and preferred attracted attention by their activity and strength.

A decline in the price of Copper Metal to 12⅞ cents a point and the softening of the market for pig iron and steel products was reflected in a slightly irregular tone in the metal stocks. U. S. Steel was an exception, this stock advancing in good form to 158.

The impression persisted in the financial district that the reserve bank governors here would announce a reduction in the rediscount rate of the bank to 3 1-2 per cent. After the close of the market today. Money rates have tended distinctly downward this week, the time rate having finally broken through 4 1-2 per cent., after clinging to that rate for six months. The Bank of France today joined the list of European banks cutting their discount rates.

Eggs dropped two cents on the wholesale price yesterday, bringing the price down to 28 cents a dozen, but not affecting directly the retail price. Some dealers have eggs contracted ahead, and were selling fresh eggs for 45 cents a dozen. The wholesale drop yesterday here, is a reflection of the weak market in larger centers recently, overcome by a steadying movement yesterday which forced up the wholesale price in other cities.

Other products on local markets were steady today, with trading light and supplies good. Fruits are especially strong now, with all kinds of Florida and California products to be had at reasonable prices.

Demand for lemons now is fairly steady and the supply is good, with best grades selling for 25 cents a dozen. Another fruit, which is finding favor with local buyers is gumquats, a southern product, selling for 35 cents a box. It is not overly familiar to local buyers and only those acquainted with it buy it as a general rule. There are plenty on local markets.
